Commencement.

WILL BE HELD APRIL 22.

Hagerstown, Ind., April 8.—The twenty-eighth annual commencement of the Hagerstown high school will be observed at the I. O. O. F. hall on Thursday night, April 22. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. Lewis Teeter at the Christian church, Sunday morning, April 18. The Alumni association will tender its banquet to the new members on Friday night, April 23, at the I. O. O. F. hall. Montana Bros. orchestra of Indianapolis will furnish the music for the commencement and alumni banquet. The music for the church services will be furnished by students of the high school under the direction of George Bowman. There are ten graduates this year being the Misses Nellie Brant, Lulu Brown, Iva Thalls, Annie Hadley, Nettie Brown, Ralph Hughes, Clyde Gelsler, Perry Hoover, Samuel Lamar and Fred Benson.

One must not imagine it is all work and no play with the Labrador eskimos. Much to my surprise I found that our good old game of football had taken hold in Ungava. The game is played with a ball of sealskin stuffed with grass. The goals are placed much the same as in our own game, and each player is armed with a short-handled sling made of several things of seal hide bent in loops and attached to a wooden handle. The ball may either be tossed in the sling, kicked, or should the opportunity offer, picked up and carried. Rough tactics are not barred. I have seen a man tossed in the air and pitched head foremost into a snowbank, while pushing, tripping and blocking are all freely indulged in.

We often wonder how any person can be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung trouble. Do not be fooled into accepting "own make" or other substitutes. The genuine contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. A. G. Luken & Co.

House Reduces Rate on
Crude Oil From 25 Per Cent
To 1 Per Cent.HORRIFIED SENATE
WON'T STAND FOR ITUpper House Will No Doubt
Pacify Its Injured Friend—
Speaker Cannon Rises Up
In His Wrath.

Washington, April 8.—Under the impression that they were striking at the Standard Oil company, a substantial majority of the house of representatives, sitting in committee of the whole fixed the duty on crude petroleum at 1 per cent ad valorem yesterday afternoon. This is practically equivalent to placing it on the free list.

The ways and means committee had reported an amendment fixing the duty at 25 per cent, and this was to take the place of the drawback provision in the Dingley law, under which the government is authorized to levy a duty on foreign oil equivalent to the impost placed on American petroleum by other countries.

Gang Is Humbled.
The committee's amendment was drawn in response to pressure from the oil producers of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kansas and other states in the Middle West, who have been strenuously insisting that this would be protection for them and not for the oil trust. But 30 republicans united with the democrats and humbled the republican organization by overriding the chair and forcing through an amendment offered by Norris (republican, of Nebraska, fix in the duty at 1 per cent. A statement by Kusterman (republican), of Wisconsin, that the drawback in the present law has proved to be a gift of about $15,000,000 to the Standard Oil company, had something to do with the result.

Uncle Joe's Labor Lost.
The contest over the oil schedules was the most exciting that has yet occurred. Speaker Cannon himself played a sensational part in it. He exhorted the republicans to stand by the ways and means committee, and he became so "hot up" that he walked over to Cooper, of Wisconsin, one of the leading republican insurgents, and declaimed pointedly and irascibly about demagogues who were trying to make political capital by attacking the oil octopus. He shook his long, gaunt finger in Cooper's face, and the "insurgent" ducked as though he feared "Uncle Joe" was trying to poke out his eyes.

Jeer at Speaker.
It was a rare treat to see the septuagenarian speaker, his scanty hair all mussed up, and his face so full of fire, it looked as though it might start a blaze, delivering an impassioned appeal to "his boys" to stand by the organization. At one point, when he said the Standard Oil could be hauled into court whenever it was caught violating the law, there were jeers among some of the democrats, who have been watching with interest the frantic efforts of the national administration to bring the Oil trust to book. But as already indicated, the dramatic participation of the speaker in the fight proved unavailing and the committee on ways and means was routed.

It was an open question whether the Standard Oil company will profit or lose if crude petroleum remains at 1 per cent ad valorem, when the new law is finished. While this great concern devotes most of its time to refining crude oil, it already owns extensive oil fields in Mexico and is a large producer of the crude product. It is also understood the Standard has a working agreement with the oil barons of Russia and Southeastern Europe in regard to their respective fields of operation. This statement has been made by the bureau of corporations, which not long ago conducted an investigation of the oil industry.

Still Has Friends.
The expectation is that the senate committee on finance will pass a substantial duty on crude petroleum when it reports the tariff bill next week, and thus the triumph achieved by the alliance of the republican insurgents and the democrats in the house, may go for naught.

People past middle life usually have some kidney or bladder disorder that saps the vitality, which is naturally lower in old age. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects urinary troubles, stimulates the kidneys, and restores strength and vigor. It cures uric acid troubles by strengthening the kidneys so they will strain out the uric acid that settles in the muscles and joints causing rheumatism. A. G. Luken & Co.

The city of Denver has gone into the publishing business on a small scale. "Denver Municipal Facts," an illustrated weekly issued by the municipality, is being distributed. It will probably remind any New Yorker into whose hands a copy may come of our own "City Record"—it is so different. It ought to have a good circulation, as it is free. The leading article in the issue of last Saturday was by the city forester, who gave citizens detailed advice on how to beautify their yards with shrubs and flowers and trees.

North Bros.

The North Bros. comedians which come to the Gennett for one week starting Monday, April 12 is now in its tenth successful season in the principal cities of the United States and this popular company is acknowledged to be the best popular price attraction on the road and this season, the plays are all new and never been seen here unless by a dollar and a half attraction. The company is headed by Mr. Harry Chapin North and Miss Virginia Goodwin, two as good people as you will see in repertoire. Their opening play Monday night is that famous English comedy that runs for two years at the Duke of York theater, London, England, "John Jasper's Wife." According to the old familiar custom one lady will be admitted free with each 30 cent ticket Monday night.

"The Great Divide."

The pictorial side of "The Great Divide," in which Henry Miller's special company is to appear at the Gennett theater, April 21 is said to be strikingly fascinating. The first two scenes are full of the atmosphere and color of the boundless West, prevailed by the spirit of mountains and plains. The first act setting represents a cabin on a cactus ranch in Southern Arizona. The second act shows "The Roof of the World," a wild, magnificent spot at the top of the Rockies. Here on the great Continental Divide is fought out the conflict between the hero and the heroine—he, typifying the unfettered, lawless freedom of the mountain and desert, she, reflecting the Puritan ideals of her New England home. The grandeur of the scenes gives an almost epic background to this struggle of contrasted national temperaments of East and West.

"Holy City."

Salome, the daughter of Herodias, the unlawful wife of King Herod, of Galilee, is one of the central characters in "The Holy City," the tremendously successful religious drama by Clarence Bennett, which is to be presented at the Gennett theater, on April 8. This is the same Salome who was the central figure in the play of that name which was written by Oscar Wilde and which was later set to music by Richard Strauss. The one presentation of this opera at the Metropolitan opera house in New York last season and the tremendous sensation which is provoked are still fresh in the minds of the general public.

"Paid in Full."

The current theatrical season is one remarkably free of real dramatic successes, in fact the positive 'hits' might easily be counted upon the fingers of one hand, but even of this limited number there is one standing out dominant as the season's absolute sensation, "Paid in Full," by Eugene Walter, just ceased its second year at the Astor theater, New York. The play was also seen in Chicago for five months at the Grand Opera house, and its reception there was equal to that given it in New York. "Paid in Full" will be seen at the Gennett theater matinee and night April 10, with a special company under the direction of Wagenhals and Kemper.

"A Broken Idol."

"A Broken Idol," true to its name, is the idol of the people who flock to the theatre to witness the performance of this sensational success, which played to record-breaking audiences for nine months at the Whitney Opera house, Chicago.

This farce is from the pen of Mr. Hal Stevens. The music is by Egbert Van Alstyne, a young man who has furnished a lot of jingly, catchy tunes of late that have won money for him and the publishers. He has given some irresistibly catchy songs to this musical farce, and the result is they are being whistled all over the country. The company Mr. Whitney has furnished for this piece is a most capable one, including, as it does, Otis Harlan, the round comedian, who is seen in the role of Doc Whatt; George Richards, who depicts in most clever style Sing Wee, a Chinese girl, Birdie Beaumont, Carrie E. Perkins, Otto Hoffman and many others equally as well known. "A Broken Idol" is announced for the Gennett theatre April 20.
